Equity Market

The Nigerian stock market closed July 2025 on a bullish note, as the NGX All-Share Index gained 16.57% month-on-month to settle at 139,863.52 points. This translated to a ₦12.47 trillion increase in investor wealth, with market capitalization rising to ₦88.42 trillion from ₦75.95 trillion in June. The strong performance was fueled by robust corporate earnings, improved macroeconomic indicators, and weak yields in the fixed-income market, which spurred interest in equities. Sectoral performance was broadly positive, with the Industrial Goods Index advancing 34.28% on the back of rallies in WAPCO, BUACEMENT, and DANGCEM, while the Banking Index climbed 25.78% driven by gains in UBA, ZENITH-BANK, and ACCESSCORP. Similarly, the Insurance Index rose 17.74% as SOVRENINS and ALLCO attracted renewed interest. The Consumer Goods and Oil & Gas Indices also appreciated by 11.14% and 1.72% respectively, supported by strong performances in DANGSUGAR, CADBURY, NESTLE, OANDO, and ARADEL.

Fixed Income Market

In July 2025, the Nigerian Treasury Bills secondary market saw average yields decline by 238bps to 17.75% from 20.14% in June, driven by strong system liquidity, maturities, and a modest primary market supply. Similarly, average yields on FGN bonds fell by 190bps to 16.18%.

Outlook

The equities market is projected to maintain its bullish momentum, supported by FX stability, stronger GDP growth, easing inflation, and declining fixed-income yields, though gains may moderate as FMCGs, banks, and insurers raise capital, alongside profit-taking and dividend mark-downs. In the fixed income space, yields are expected to decline further, driven by ample system liquidity and strong demand amid softening inflation.
