MARKET COMMENTARY

Fixed Income Market

In May, the financial system's average liquidity increased due to an N1.20 trillion FAAC distribution, causing a drop in open buyback and overnight lending rates. The Treasury bills market saw higher demand due to improved liquidity, while bond auctions saw lower participation due to higher money market rates. Stop rates for FGNB 2029 and 2031 dropped. The secondary market experienced a decline in average yields, with Treasury Bills and Bond markets yields dropping from 22.20% and 18.94% in April to 21.72% and 18.69%, respectively.

Equity Market

The NGX All-Share Index saw a 1.09% gain, bringing its year-to-date return to 32.80%, despite negative sentiment towards bank stocks, as investors saw the prices as an attractive entry point. The market saw renewed interest in MTN Nigeria, Seplat Energy, and Guaranty Trust Holding Company, while Airtel Africa, FBN Holdings, and UBA experienced selling pressure. Sectoral performance was mostly positive, with the NGX Banking Index, Oil and Gas Index, Consumer Goods Index, and Industrial Goods Index all closing in the green.
