Equity Market

The Nigerian stock market closed September on a positive note, with the NGX All-Share Index rising 1.72% month-on-month to 142,710.48 points. Market capitalization increased to ₦90.58 trillion from ₦88.77 trillion in August, translating to a ₦1.81 trillion gain for investors. This upbeat performance was supported by the interest rate cut during the month and improving expectations around corporate earnings. Sector performance was mostly bullish, led by the Oil & Gas Index, which advanced 5.94% on strong price gains in ARADEL (+20.59% m/m). The Consumer and Industrial Goods indices also gained 5.65% and 1.89%, driven by bargain hunting in GUINNESS (+41.46%), BUAFOODS (+6.73%), BUACEMENT (+5.40%), and DANGCEM (+0.94%). In contrast, the Insurance and Banking indices declined 7.21% and 0.95%, pressured by losses in AICO (-13.37%), WEMABANK (-26.09%), and UBA (-11.20%).

Fixed Income Market

At the Nigerian Treasury Bills secondary market, average yields declined by 127bps month-on-month to 17.85% in September, from 19.13% recorded in August 2025. Average FGN bond yield moderated by 74bps to settle at 16.20%, as investors bolstered by renewed buying interest around the short-dated papers.

Outlook

Market sentiment is expected to remain broadly positive in the near term, supported by strong corporate earnings momentum, improving macro indicators, and still-muted fixed-income yields that keep equities attractive. However, investors may adopt a more selective approach as valuations rise, with market direction likely guided by upcoming earnings releases, interest-rate expectations, and liquidity conditions in the fixed-income market.
